

DUTCH APPLE THEATRE

presents

“JERSEY BOYS”

This documentary-style play portrays the journey of the popular 1960's boy band The Four Seasons. The show ran on Broadway for about 12 years bagging a Tony, Olivier, and Grammy award before making a splash in the West End.

Bob Gaudio, a member of the original band, sought after writers Rick Elice and Marshall Brickman, and Director Des McAnuff to make a discography of the band. This idea eventually morphed into making a play portraying the trials and tribulations, and the enormous fame of the band. The show makes for an excellent insider peek into a band that made music for a generation.

The Story

This is a musical biography based on the rough life of the members of the band The Four Seasons. It takes a glimpse behind the glitter that surrounded this band that made an entire generation groove to their tunes. From gambling debts, Mafia threats, and family drama to personal clashes, the play portrays all their tribulations. This emotional story is carried masterfully by musical pieces directed by the original pianist of the band Bob Gaudio. It is the classic American Story of rags to riches and back to rags!
